And the Tariff is Gone

Wool is bringing higher prices than at any time in the last twenty-five years, with the exception of two years. And, it will be remembered, it was predicted that the Underwood tariff would destroy the wool industry in this country.—Weston Chronicle.

J. F. MITCHEM has leased the De Soto Press from his brother Charles, who was appointed postmaster at De Soto. Mr. Mitchem formerly owned the Press and is a veteran in the newspaper business. The fraternity in southeast Missouri will extend to Bro. Mitchem a cordial welcome and trust he will be successful in a full measure.

The republican party in congress has reached the point where it has almost ceased to be even a party of opposition. Some of its members voted for the democrat Tariff Bill; many more voted for the democrat currency bill; there were only a few scattering votes against two of the democratic trust measures, and upon the third trust bill the republicans could not muster enough strength to demand a roll call in the house.

As the Record Proves

Without going into the merits or demerits of the anti-trust legislation enacted by the house, one fact commands attention.

The vote by which the three measures making up the administration program were passed, was not a party vote. But one progressive voted against the Clayton bill. The rest, together with forty-three republicans voted for it. Eight republicans and four democrats voted against the Sayburn bill. All of the progressives voted for it. The Covington bill was passed without a record vote.

Mr. Roosevelt has announced that his campaign against the Wilson administration will be an attack on its tariff and trust legislation. In both the administration has commanded almost as large a percentage of progressive as of democratic votes.

Will Mr. Roosevelt ignore the legislative record of one party in attacking that of the other? Will the people be fooled, if he makes the attempt?—Louisville Times.

Their Common Ground

The republicans want the federal offices now held by democrats.

The progressives want the federal offices now held by democrats.

The two factions have a common hunger for place and power and patronage; but have they anything else in common?

Both eagerly denounce the Underwood-Simmons tariff, but if there were a republican-progressive majority in congress, would it undertake seriously to restore the Payne-Adrich bill or the Dingley schedules? Would it undertake seriously any general scheme of tariff revision?

Both are in sympathy with the principle of a central bank; but if there were a republican-progressive majority in congress, would it venture to amend in any important respect the new currency and banking laws that a democrat administration has written into the statute books?

Both sneer at President Wilson's Mexican policy; but would a republican-progressive administration abandon his wise and humane attempt to establish a permanent peace in Mexico by removing the cause of revolt, or would it turn a distracted country back to predatory privilege and predatory poverty? Worse still, would it enter upon a war of conquest?

Both complain of the Wilson economic policies; but would a republican-progressive party halt the investigation into New Haven corruption, would it refuse to enact laws giving the Interstate Commerce commission power over railroad capitalization, would it even repeal the proposed amendments to the Sherman Anti-Trust act, in case they become law? Would it give the government back to Wall street? Most of the progressives and many republicans oppose the repeal of the Panama coastwise exemption clause, but will either faction promise to tear up the Hay-Pouncefort treaty and give the coastwise monopoly $1,000,000 or so a year at the expense of all the American people?

What has President Wilson done that the republicans and progressives if they were returned to power, would undo? What has he left undone that they would do? What has he done that they would be likely to do better?

It is always easier for a minority to criticize than for a majority to act, and it is a matter of record that no other administration since the civil war has accomplished so much in an equal period of time as the Wilson administration.

All the fundamental differences in principle that existed between the republicans and the progressives in 1912 exist now. These differences can be forgotten, but they cannot be reconciled. The only basis for a compromise lies in the fact that Mr. Roosevelt is personally stronger than any candidate the republicans can name and that without the republican vote Mr. Roosevelt's candidacy in 1916 would be a farce.

Any compromise between the republicans and the progressives gets back to the elementary question of dividing the spoils. That must inevitably be the "great moral issue" of a harmony campaign in which the two factions are again united.—New York World.

All Furniture for the Utah state building at San Diego, will be made by the pupils of the state's manual training schools, says a bulletin. Contests have been instituted in the schools and the prize specimens will furnish the different halls of the building. At the end of 1915 they will be sent back to the schools that supplied them, as trophies.

The annual harvesting of blue grass seed on the Bilby ranches and other farms near Quitman has begun. It is estimated that the crop this year will be worth $10,000. Thirty-four machines are at work stripping the grass, and W. C. Daniel of Winchester, Ky., who is in charge of the work, says that better seed is being raised around Quitman than is grown in Kentucky, made famous for her blue grass.—St. Joseph Observer.

MOTHERS
Should be always on the watch for symptoms of worms in their children. These pests undermine strength and vitality. A child with worms is pale, sickly and cross, has dark rings under the eyes, bad breath, starts in the sleep. WHITE'S CREAM VERMIFUGE destroys worms and intestinal parasites of all kinds. A few days use produces a wonderful improvement. The pale, sickly child is transformed into a rosy, vigorous cherub, full of vim and activity.

A Mighty Thin Horse

They were speaking about horses they had known the other day, when Senator Henry F. Hollis of New Hampshire, told of an animal that used to ramble around New England.

A small farmer, he said, had an old horse that was exceedingly thin. Hay and corn didn't seem to greatly nourish it, for the more it ate the thinner it got.

One day the farmer took the horse to the harness maker's and ordered a new collar. Attempting to put the new purchase on a few days later, he was some agitated to find that it wouldn't go over the animal's head. Back to the harness maker with accelerated speed.

"Look here," exclaimed the farmer on reaching the shop. "What do you mean by making me a collar like that? It won't go over that horse's head!"

"Of course it won't go over his head," was the prompt rejoinder of the harness maker. "It wasn't intended to go over his head. What you want to do is to back him into it."—Philadelphia Record.
